

Jody P. Moen, BA
Communications Coordinator
Pain & Policy Studies Group

Jody Moen has been the Communications Coordinator for the Pain & Policy Studies Group since 2001. In her position, Ms. Moen acts as liaison for the PPSG communications team, managing dissemination of information via the PPSG website and through email communications to large U.S. and international audiences.

Ms. Moen assists with coordination of the PPSG's International Pain Policy Fellowship program and also operates as a faculty member for the current 2008 Fellows from Jamaica and Guatemala by assisting with action plans to address barriers to opioid access and by providing technical assistance.

Ms. Moen collaborates on other global international projects to improve availability and access to opioid pain medications, most recently in Eastern Europe and Africa, and serves as the primary staff person coordinating PPSG's work in Latin America.

Ms. Moen is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin–Platteville where she received a bachelor's degree in Spanish with an emphasis in International Business. As part of her degree, she studied for a semester in Seville, Spain.
